HOAGLAND'S

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. H. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO JUNE 12.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—It is stated that the President has organized and is about to inaugurate a commercial policy which will bring to the United States the vast trade of the Spanish American States now going to Europe. It looks to a new treaty and intimate relations, and was suggested in his first annual message.

Secretary Cox stated in an interview with Laurence that he did not believe it good policy for the Government to sell public lands in large tracts by treaty; that he believed there was no constitutional authority by treaty with the Indian tribes to sell lands which they hold to railroad companies or other parties, and that he was not in favor of such a treaty; but when such treaty had been made, the Department could not declare it void, but leave it to the courts to decide.

Indian Affairs.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—The Seminoles and Osage Indians held a council in the Creek territory to consider the territorial and railroad bills and other schemes affecting the welfare of the Indians. They adopted an address to the President, Congress and people of the United States. They ask nothing except that the compacts between them and the Government be faithfully observed. They appeal to the President and people of the United States to defend them from the schemes of ambitious men.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—The steamer Active went ashore in a dense fog. She has not yet broken up, but will go to pieces the first blow. The inhabitants from points along the coast flocked to the scene, determined to plunder the wreck, and being joined by two of the crew who had been whipped for stealing from the passengers' baggage, attempted to take forcible possession of the freight and baggage saved, but were driven off with shot guns. When the Pacific left a long line of lights on the shore showed that the wreckers were encamped there, and would probably renew their attempt to plunder. Capt. Lyon and the entire crew remained behind to look after the wreck and freight. It is thought that about one half of the freight, of which she had about ninety tons, will be saved in a damaged condition. Nearly, if not quite all, the baggage is saved, very little of it being damaged. Some miscreant broke open a valise, and we believe a few other petit thefts were perpetrated. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s freight was valued at about $10,000, nearly all of which is badly damaged, if not entirely ruined. The total value of the cargo is probably about $100,000. The passengers all unite in a card, exonerating Capt. Lyon, and thanking him for his attentions to them. Most of them returned here by the Pacific, though their names are not entered on her passenger list.

The fire last night damaged Rosalia's grocery store and Hopples' cigar store on No. 1,422 Stockton street, to the amount $1,000. Covered by insurance.

The following is the list of passengers on the wrecked steamer Active, returned here by the steamer Pacific: B H Nagle, John Spaul, W H Fleet, Robert Douglas, Finlay McRae, David Marshall, Edwin Bruce, Chas Stewart, D Cruckshanks, W H Trimble, Jas Wilson, John McArdle, Luther Ottis, Henry Wells, Charles Wesley, Nichols Baker, Jos Sarapnis, James Kirk, Lewis Lucre, A G Kisschke, W M McRae, A Fraser, A Cook, Mrs Hankin, Mrs Jimmie Patterson, Emma J Phelps, Francis E Eaton, Mrs Lewis, C E P Wood, Mary Wood, Rosina Lewis, Mrs T F McElroy, Mattie Slocum, Mrs Conklin, Belle Evans, Miss Sarah E Allen, Mrs Gridding, Mrs Kelly, Alexander McQuarrie, C A Watermier, James Kelly and T O'Connell.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—A correspondent, under date of Ukiah City, June 9th, writes: "A distressing accident occurred near Lanol, in this county, yesterday. A little boy aged about fifteen years was assisting his father, a Mr. McNabb, in hauling hay, and was on the wagon, when the horses took fright and ran away, throwing him on a sharp peg in the hay frame which penetrated his body, inflicting a horrible wound from which he died in about an hour and a half."

Barney Cosgrove, who murdered Ellen McManus at Elko last week, bears a bad reputation here, having been frequently arrested for savage assaults. About twenty months ago—a short time before the Presidential election—he stabbed a man named Michael Flood, at a saloon on Market street. For several weeks it was believed Flood would die, but he recovered. Cosgrove was tried for the assault in this County Court, convicted and fined $600. His mother raised $500 by mortgaging her house, and paid the fine, $100 having been remitted by Judge McKinstry. While in prison Cosgrove was frequently supplied with meals by the girl whose life has just been sacrificed at his hands.

Indications are that the court will refuse the injunction against the Mercantile Library lottery. At the hearing to-day Barnes said the only question involved is whether Dan'l O'Connell can come into this court and ask for a specific performance of the Constitution of the State of California. Judge Morrison remarked that there was another question. It seems to be claimed that the special act conferring a privilege on the defendants is null and void as being unconstitutional, and as the getting up and carrying on of a lottery is a misdemeanor, the consideration presents itself whether a court of equity can be properly asked to enjoin the commission of an act which is a misdemeanor and to which the statute fixes a penalty. The plaintiff must stand on his pleadings, and if the allegations are not sufficient the motion for an injunction cannot be granted. The motion will be disposed of to-morrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—The Argenta Silver Mining Company declared their first dividend of of 75 cents per share, or $7 50 per foot, payable immediately.

A letter from Camp Date Creek, Arizona, May 27th, states that Wm. Kelly, owner of a ranch in Kirkland valley, was attacked by seven Indians. Kelly repulsed them after a desperate fight, killing one and running them through the ranch of Wm. Columberal. The latter attacked them and killed three others. Three escaped.

Letters from the same locality say that in Martinez District, forty miles north of Wickenburg, and same distance west of Prescott, in the worst Apache locality in Arizona, immense ledges of gold-bearing quartz have been discovered. Samples of rock received by steamer to-day are almost pure gold—richer than the best ever seen from Grass Valley. A rush has already commenced to the district, and the chances are the Indians will be driven out. Lieut. Col. O'Brien, in command at Date Creek, is giving miners all the protection in his power.

The steamer Prince Alfred, of the English screw line, advertised to leave here early last March will probably sail for Central America about the 20th inst.

The total vote of the city has been recounted by the Board of Supervisors to-day and the result is a clear majority of 62 in favor of subsidy. There is no question of its being carried. It is evident that the returns from the 1st Ward at least were fraudulent or the votes since have been tampered with, as there were no scratched tickets, all being plain "yes" or "no."

The case of forgery of Treadwell & Co.'s check, cashed on Hilcox & Spear, was partially heard in the Police Court to-day. The public and reporters of the press were all excluded. The examination will be concluded to-morrow.

Nine more butchers were arrested to-day under the charge of misdemeanor, for not removing their slaughterhouse nuisance from Brannan street as required by law.

Much indignation is expressed at the revelation of the custom of placing lunatics in the same cell with Chinamen, which to-day resulted in John Glassbrook, a raving madman, nearly murdering a Chinaman before he could be got off.

The banks of New York are at a loss to determine what to do with the enormous amount of national bank notes with which they are inundated. They have fully $10,000,000 of currency which the channels of business do not absorb. In nearly all other financial centers, there exists, relatively, the same state of facts. There has not been a time, in years, when there was so much money seeking investment at low interest.

THE WEST.

The news from Big Bend is favorable. Several of the claims continue a good yield. The steamer Forty-nine is running again.

In Alaska, if a native murders his wife, her relatives won't be satisfied untill he gives them a lot of blankets. They think a wife is worth fifteen blankets in the summer, and twenty in the winter.

The new Branch Mint, of San Francisco, the corner stone of which was laid with Masonic ceremonies, recently, is designed to be a magnificent building. It is located at the northwest corner of Mission and Fifth streets, having a frontage of two hundred and twenty-one feet two inches, by a depth on Mission street of one hundred and sixty six feet two inches.

The Gilroy (Cal.) Advocate of the 4th inst. says: A whirlwind is of common occurrence in all countries, and, of course, we are not excepted here. Last Wednesday we witnessed one of peculiar interest. It commenced its twisting ascension a mile from town, and marched into our principal street. The base was small, not over five feet in diameter, and its summit reached into the heavens as far as the eye could penetrate. Dust, papers and particles were irresistibly carried out of sight.

The Los Angeles News of the 2d inst. says: One of the exploring party alluded to elsewhere, tells us of a salt lake located in the mountains of Lower California, which is some twenty or thirty miles long, and half as many broad. It has no apparent inlet or outlet. When several miles distant the nostrils of the approaching party were saluted with odors which were certainly not those from "Araby blest." Arriving at the shores of the lake the cause lay revealed. The waters for a long distance from the shores were very shallow. A storm of wind, evidently, had driven vast shoals of fish on shore, where they were left to decompose beneath the broiling sun, creating a horrible stench. The flesh resembled the eastern "sucker," and were from one foot to eighteen inches in length. The waters of the lake appeared alive with living finny occupants.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Democrats pretend that the poll books from two Republican precincts have not yet come in, and Republicans suspect that Democrats do not intend to have them come within the ten days provided by law. If they are not in it will be because Democrats deem it necessary to keep them out in order to "elect" their candidates, to all of whom they will give certificates, which they can do with as much propriety and more honesty than many other things they have done.

According to returns, majorities in this county stand thus: Wilson 8; Grover 3, Chadwick 5, Fleischner 6; Patterson 6; McArthur 7; Laswell 8; Waldron, (Rep.) Representative, over Fulton, 1; Savage, (Dem.) over Rowland, 20; Wood, (Rep.) Commissioner, 2; Fitzgerald, (Dem.) Commissioner, 12; Holland, (Dem.) Clerk, 14; Bird, (Dem.) Sheriff, 30; Bach, (Rep.) Treasurer, 2.

All of the men at work on the mints not in the county over 90 days before commencing work were ruled out on the county ticket, and some on State ticket. Five votes were rejected because they had not taken out their full citizen papers six months before the election, though they were honorably discharged soldiers, and had been admitted to citizenship within the last two months. Democrats were permitted to vote without swearing, although challenged, whenever there was a doubt about their being able to swear.

Several Republicans were driven away by the judges, and not allowed to vote, although they were well known residents of the county and offered to take the oath provided by law. We are legally and justly entitled to not less than ten votes on the State and 40 on the county ticket that were rejected. We can throw out from ten to twenty that voted their tickets illegally. Not less than eight (perhaps more) of their men were allowed to vote for Representatives, and five their entire county ticket, in other precincts than where they reside.

They have beaten us only by the most villainous and outrageous frauds. And if we submit now we can never hope to have another election with the least degree of honesty or fairness. We shall go after them and crowd the rascally judges to the bitter end. I am entirely confident we can make it cost them dearly. Upon a contest we will secure every county official. We are going to the bottom of the matter. R.

Charles James Fox, the English Statesman, being once at Ascot races with his intimate companion, Gen. Conway, missed his snuff-box. The General was lucky enough to discover the thief and seized him before he could get clear. Upon this the man fell on his knees, and with many tears besought Fox to pardon him and not expose him to ruin, for he was a poor weaver in great destitution, and this was the first offense against the laws he had ever committed. Fox was greatly affected, and not only let the offender go, but gave him a guinea. Shortly after this, having occasion to use his box, he found no sign of it in the pocket where he had replaced it, and turning to Gen. Conway, said: "My snuff-box is gone again." "Yes," replied the latter, "I saw the scamp take it the second time, when you gave him the money, but I thought I wouldn't interfere again."

Father De Smet, the venerable apostle of the Indians, is making preparations to visit the upper Missouri, with a view of establishing a mission among some of the tribes in that section. The condition of matters has so changed since Father De Smet visited the country before that he has not fully determined on the point where the mission will be established. He will probably go up as far as Fort Rice and the Yellowstone, stopping at the various posts on the Indian reservation in Dakota. The "Black Gown," as he is called by the Indians, is known among nearly all the tribes from the Missouri to the Pacific. His missionary labors have now extended over a period of fifty years.

The Fenian "War"—Battle of Trout River.

TROUT RIVER, NEAR MALONE, }
New York, May 27th }

A Company of United States regulars arrived at Malone from Sackett's Harbor, a circumstance which induced the Fenians to quit the town more rapidly and in larger numbers. It was fully eight o'clock when any sort of an attempt was made to organize the Fenians at the camping ground. The details came in irregularly and at long intervals, and, although a reinforcement was anxiously expected, none put in an appearance. The straggling parties that dribbled in at once donned some kind of uniform, and were armed with fine breech loaders and plenty of ammunition. They now numbered 350 men, one third veterans, and the rest, though stanch and hearty looking fellows, evidently untrained and undisciplined. Officers, lieutenants and privates were all mixed up together indeed it was impossible to tell one from the other—and most of the men present were entirely ignorant as to who was in command, their destination, or any circumstance whatever of the coming battle. To most of them General Starr the commander, was completely unknown, and all the preliminary evolutions were characterized by much disorder. Great excitement prevailed, all the preparatory arrangements being irregularly carried out. Some grumbled at the paucity of the numbers, some at the officers, who appeared to know very little of what they were about, and others at the ill-timed attempt generally. But a rigid determination was observable in most of the men, many of whom were not slow to give vent to their feelings of indignation against Great Britain. Some swore they would sooner die than return homeward.

ADVANCING TO THE LINE.

After much parleying the Fenians were got together, and at the word of command the force moved out upon the road and faced in the direction of the border. But very little was now spoken. Scarcely a whisper was heard as the men approached the line of division. On they marched, irregularly to be sure, but with a rapidity and apparent desire for fight that plainly showed to the observer that should their foe be encountered an engagement must take place.

ACROSS THE LINE.

The Fenians crossed the border at twenty minutes past eight o'clock, and continued on their march in a solid body for about half a mile, when passing through a maple grove, they halted and commenced to throw up breastworks.

THE RED COATS APPEAR.

This undertaking they began with a will, and were proceeding briskly when suddenly the Canadian forces hove in sight at a distance of about 800 yards. Their appearance was like an apparition, but the sight of the red coats roused the Fenians. They seemed to forget their position, and by a suppressed cry intimated their thirst for the struggle. The Canadian force, numbering 1,800 men and 300 reserve, chiefly consisting of the Huntingdon Volunteers, were under command of Colonel Bagot, of the Sixty-ninth Regulars, British army.

GETTING READY TO FIGHT.

Upon the approach of the Canadian volunteers the Fenians were drawn up in line of battle, sixteen skirmishers having been previously thrown out about twenty yards in advance of the main body. The spectacle was a strange one, and fully exhibited the foolhardiness of the men who desired to avenge their wrongs. The Fenians stood still, but the Canadian forces continued to advance in three columns, and first opened the battle by a round of musketry.

THE ENGAGEMENT.

The distance between the contending forces, however, was too great for the shots to take effect. The Fenians promptly answered the fire, and the skirmishers in the front now coming closer together, were evidently determined to rush into the very jaws of death. The consequence was fatal. Poorly covered by the main line, the band of skirmishers blindly advanced, the Canadians in ambush peppering away and the Fenians returning fire with all the appearance of determination to maintain their perilous position. A loud sharp volley came whizzing through the trees, and the leader of the skirmishers, Dennis Dugan, was numbered among the dead. The Canadians were now rapidly advancing on the Fenians' breastworks, all the time keeping up the fire. The right and left columns commenced to deploy skirmishers, the intention being to surround and capture the entire Fenian body.

A RETREAT ORDERED.

Previous to this General Starr gave the order to retreat, but with remarkable daring and coolness, the Fenians in the front defiantly answered, "Never! never! We will fight, and let us die rather than go back. Come on."

STARR VANISHES.

But, heedless of their entreaties to lead them to battle, General Starr turned round alone and disappeared. With desperation the Fenians rallied, but being without a leader, they fired indiscriminately. They went beyond control, and every single man seemed to fight on his own separate account, unconscious that within a few minutes they would be perhaps beyond the hope of deliverance.

THE ROUT.

The volunteers were now closing around their adversaries, and, as if by the way of warning, fired several volleys in rapid succession, and another of the Fenian skirmishers, an officer named Donnelly, fell to the ground. The Fenians, entirely out of order and desperate, and completely demoralized, were about to make a wild charge, when, luckily, they wheeled around and, scattering, fled in different directions.

Capital Value of Immigration

The increasing tide of immigration now flowing into our State will very speedily make itself felt in the increasing activity and vigor of our industrial development. It is not merely the money and property which these newly arriving bring with them that adds to the wealth of the State, but it is the addition they make to the productive labor of the country, that contributes in the largest degree to the general prosperity. The economic value of each additional laborer to the country of his adoption amounts to a large sum, for the industry of each laborer represents a certain amount of productive wealth, to be added to the industrial forces of the country. Some have carried this investigation so far as to endeavor to capitalize, so to speak, the addition to the natural resources of the country, represented by each immigrant.

Of course it is not to be expected that of the immigration coming into our State any considerable portion will consist of helpless or incapable persons. Nearly all are of the active, producing class. There is a simple method of obtaining the "capital value" of each laboring man who comes into a State,—a method that is adopted by the Commissioner of Immigration for New York, who puts it thus: "Each laborer is worth pecuniarily to the country, the profits from his production, over and above the expense of his support. His average cost is say $400 per annum. It is believed that an ordinary profit of common labor is from 15 to 18¾ per cent. This would leave the gain to the country from $60 to $75 annually. This, at the average rate of interest prevailing in the United States would represent the capital value of about $1,000 for an average male laborer."

But in Oregon the "capital value" of each additional laborer will be more than this. Here, conditions exist which will considerably change the results of the above economical reasonings. The capital value of a thing depends largely on the demand for it. Ours is a new State, where the demand for labor is generally greater than the supply. If there are exceptions to this rule the exceptions are usually the result of the improvidence of laborers themselves. The average man here can in a remarkably short time accumulate $1,000, over and above the cost of living. That is to say, he can do it by industry, sobriety and frugality. If each additional laborer is worth $1,000 to an old State like New York, he is worth double that sum to a new State like Oregon.

The people who come to Oregon are generally of the very best and most useful class. The other States that lie in the path of the tide that advances toward the west catch and retain the less vigorous and adventurous. Considered in this view those States have been compared to a filter, through which the stream of immigration is purified. It is the hardy, self-reliant, industrious and energetic immigrant, who comes into our State, to enrich it by his labor, his intelligence and his property. He represents an indefinite productive power, the results of which will soon appear in the expansion of our industries and the development of the resources of our State. The capital value of the immigration that is now coming and is speedily promised is of far greater worth to our State than all the gold poured into her lap from the neighboring mines.

Results of Demagogism in San Francisco.

The Herald has mounted its Chinese hobby horse for another political ride. This time it deplores the "starving condition of workingmen in San Francisco, and attributes it to the cheap labor of the Chinese. This of course is political buncombe. If San Francisco is crowded with destitute people it is because they prefer to stay there and feed on the extravagant promises of party demagogues, rather than go to the interior where honest labor can always gain a subsistence. The course pursued by the Democratic politicians of San Francisco has resulted in creating in that city a great idle rabble, who expect to get a living without working for it. They have been wheedled and flattered and deceived by the Democratic politicians who have been bidding for their votes, and taught to believe that they could find resources elsewhere than in their own industry and self reliance, where alone their resources are to be found. The consequence is that they now resemble the great Roman rabble who expected to be fed by distributions of corn and other largesses, at the public expense. Still flattered by the demagogues, they still hang round San Francisco, though every part of California, and every portion of the Pacific coast, is in want of productive labor. The action of the Legislature in pretending to provide employment for them on the streets and parks of San Francisco only aggravated the evil. The thing was a swindle from the start. The men would not work, but demanded the money and got it. Something like one hundred thousand dollars was thus scattered among them as a donative, and the mischief that was done by it was incalculable. The men were encouraged to hope for more, and to look for a livelihood to other sources than their own labor. The ferment still continues, and the demagogues of the Democratic party are at the bottom of it. To fan the flame of discontent and make political capital of it, all the State twaddle about "Chinese competition" is rehearsed with a "damnable iteration." The Herald says that this rabble is liable to break out at any time and pillage San Francisco. It would be a righteous retribution if a fate of this kind would fall upon the wealthy Democratic leaders who are inflaming the rabble, to subserve their own selfish political purposes. If a riot in San Francisco growing out of this matter, should take a direction like this, there would really be little reason to regret it. If the demagogues themselves were compelled to fly from the knives they have sharpened against the peace of society, the spectacle would afford some satisfaction.

Twelve counties from which full returns have been received vote as follows on Congressman: Wilson 8,574; Slater, 8,085. In 1868, the same counties gave Logan 7,985, and Smith 8,030. There are ten counties from which full returns have not been received. In 1868 these ten counties threw 2,595 Republican and 3,733 Democratic votes. It will be seen that the actual Republican gain in twelve counties (all west of the mountains) is [illegible]. This will be increased in the remaining western counties to over 600. East of the mountains the Republican gain will be at least 300. It would appear that the Democratic vote of the State is actually smaller than in 1868, while the Republican vote is about 1,000 larger. This indicates the political drift, and shows that in the next election Oregon is sure to go Republican.

Senator Williams—The Railroad Controversy

The following article on the railroad controversy of which Democrats and a few renegade Republicans attempted to make so much before the election, is from the Eugene Journal. It is written by Mr. Kincaid who has had good opportunities to know all about the subject and we bespeak for it a careful perusal. Let every one read it through.

Several days before the election the Democrats set up a cry about the "Humboldt Railroad" and continued [illegible] the [illegible] of closing [illegible]. [illegible] they had [illegible] stock in trade [illegible] thing but one issue, and [illegible] was they made more [illegible] than the beating of a thousand [illegible]. The repudiationists [illegible] this useless [illegible] to defeat the Republican State and Legislative tickets. And a very few Republicans, who felt more interest in making a few hundred thousand dollars out of a land grant than in the success of their party and the principles which they profess to believe in, joined the Democrats in this clamor, furnished them letters and materials to be used against our ticket, and it is believed subsidized the repudiation organ at Portland and then hired broken down politicians to come up the west side of the Willamette valley and peddle out that paper. Without repentance, regeneration or preparation of any kind these repudiation Democrats who have been remarkable in the past for obstructing everything calculated to improve and advance the interests of the people assumed that they were the chosen guardians and exclusive champions of railroad improvements in this State. The change was so sudden and the claim set up for Democracy was so cheeky, that the people were almost paralyzed with wonder, and had scarcely time to recover their wits or account for the remarkable phenomenon before the election. Like an earthquake it shocked them with surprise, and before the rumbling sounds raised by the Democratic hosts of repudiation and their few interested allies had died away in the distance the election had passed. This was exactly what the demagogues expected, and for that purpose the howl was raised at the proper time—a few days before the election. "The monopoly of Ben Holladay!" "Holladay's ticket!" "No Republican ticket in the field!" "The perfidy of Williams!" "the treachery of Williams!" "Williams and all the Republican candidates owned by Holladay!" "The Humboldt Road!" "The Branch Road!" These were the watchwords of the Democrats and they reiterated them all over Oregon ten thousand times. The change which came over the spirit of their dream was the most complete and startling ever recorded. Never before was so great a cry raised when there was so little reason for it. The Democrats actually astonished the oldest inhabitants, and were no doubt agreeably surprised at their own efforts—at the great amount of dust they succeeded in raising out of the limited material they had to work with. Indeed, they performed wonders and came very near performing a miracle by manufacturing something out of nothing, and we give them credit for their ingenuity and industry.

The occasion, or rather the pretext—because they would have raised some other "new issue" if their attention had not been directed to this by interested parties—of all this outburst of indignation, was found in the fact that on the 4th of May when the bill granting lands to aid in the construction of "the Oregon Branch of the Pacific Railroad," passed the Senate, Senator Williams had it so amended as to make it intersect with the "Oregon and California Railroad" in Rogue River Valley instead of in the Willamette Valley at or near Eugene City. As a citizen of Eugene City, and feeling interested in this section as well as in the general prosperity of the whole State, we regret this change. The route from this point is the shortest; the road would pass through and develop a large section of country, and in time it will be built, for it will become as much a necessity to south eastern Oregon and the whole State as the Oregon and California road now is to southern Oregon and the whole State. And besides this the men who have been engaged in the enterprise have labored long and earnestly and deserve success.

But now a few words in regard to the change, the history of the bill, and the merits of the case under the circumstances. Mr. Pengra conceived the idea of building a railroad over that route to connect with the then contemplated Pacific Railroad to California, soon after he came to this country in 1853. He is the father of the enterprise; it has been the cherished measure of his life, and he has devoted to it all of his extraordinary will and great energies. Many years ago he succeeded in obtaining a land grant for a "military road" over the line of this route, with a view of opening up the country to travel and settlement preparatory to building a railroad, and after a great deal of trouble, succeeded in getting the stock taken. The company has gone on and expended about $100,000 in building the road without receiving any returns, though they have a large amount of lands which will more than reimburse them for all their expenditures. In the winter of 1867–8 Gen. Pengra went to Washington to get a subsidy to build a railroad over this route. The writer of this was there at that time, and at the request of Mr. P. went with him to see Messrs. Mallory, Flanders, and others in regard to the scheme. Mr. Mallory objected to the route down the Middle Fork of the Willamette on the ground that it would ignore Douglas and Jackson counties and deprive Southern Oregon of a railroad. Finally the Oregon Senators and Representative agreed upon a bill, which was to leave the company free to choose a route over the Cascade Mountains in the "vicinity of Klamath Lake," it being the general understanding that this would bring it through Southern Oregon. They refused to support a bill to bring the road across the Cascade Mountains at the head of the Willamette Valley, for the reason above stated, that it would deprive the southern counties of a railroad. However, this bill ultimately failed.

Last winter Mr. Pengra went to Washington again to urge the passage of a bill for a land grant. He asserts that the Oregon delegation, Senator Williams included, then agreed to have the road come down the Middle Fork over the Military road, and although we never heard either of them say where the road was to cross the Cascade Mountains, we have no doubt such was the agreement, for it appears that Senator Williams reported the bill in that shape. But it must be apparent to every one that this change in the route—this agreement to fix the road where they had positively refused to fix it before—was to conform to a change which had taken place in the railroad prospects of the country. It had become generally understood that the "Oregon and California Railroad" would soon be built and would pass through Umpqua and Rogue River Valleys, and no doubt Senator Williams shared in the belief when he agreed to the bill to bring the road over the Middle Fork route. In the meantime the controlling interest in the "Humboldt Branch" passed into the hands of the Central Pacific Railroad company, the same company that is building the California end of the "Oregon and California Railroad," and it began to be whispered round that they did not intend to connect with the Oregon road in the Rogue River country as had been originally contemplated, but intended to run up Pitt River to a junction with the "Humboldt Branch" in the vicinity of Klamath Lake and thence over the Military Road route and down the Middle Fork, joining the Holladay road at or near Eugene City, and leaving the southern counties without any railroad. Senator Williams asserts, in a letter published in this paper, that he had good reasons for believing that such was the intention of the Central Pacific Company. If he so believed, he not only had a right, without any bad faith or treachery towards the company that was playing false to him and the people of Southern Oregon, to change the bill back as he did, so as to conform it to the original proposition, but as a faithful representative of the interests and rights of the people of every part of the State it was his duty to do so, and the people will sustain him for performing that duty. Senator Williams is not responsible for an attempt of the Central Pacific company to play a sharp trick on a part of the people of Oregon. If they had given reasonable assurance of their intention to build their end of the Oregon road north so as to pass through the southern counties, no doubt the Humboldt bill would have passed as they desired it, or they might have had it changed to conform to their wishes. Instead of pursuing such a course, they, or their representative here in the person of a Portland banker and a few others, have made a war—a fierce, unrelenting war—on Senator Williams, on every one of the Republican candidates and on the entire organization. They were swift to make a party issue of it, and tried to destroy the Republican party. If they have succeeded in delaying, or destroying entirely for the present, a great work, they can charge the blame to their own folly.

We call attention to the letter from Wasco, which shows "how it was done" in that county. Our advices from Polk show that Democrats managed it similarly there. We can tell Democratic Senatorial aspirants that they need not be panting to get a certificate to go the Senate on an election based on such frauds as this. There will be several chances that the man who expects to profit by this swindle will not get the seat he goes after.

CURRENT NOTES

"Manitoba," the name selected for the rebellious Northwest Territory, is said to signify "the god who speaks."

The weather telegraphs of Europe now predict the condition of the weather from England to Sicily for many hours beforehand, with perfect regularity. The losses thus averted may be calculated at a high figure. The Paris and London papers publish the telegrams as carefully as they do fluctuations on 'Change.

A daughter of Chief Justice Chase, Miss Nellie, is about to enter the literary field. She is engaged in writing a work which is now almost ready. She is said to have remarkable talent. The book is juvenile, and is illustrated with much humor and spirit by the lady herself. Miss Greeley, daughter of Horace Greeley, is also writing a book called "Tropical Sketches."

J. Ross Browne found his mission to China anything but profitable, partly because his term was short, partly because the salary is not in proportion to the expenses incident to going to, coming from, and traveling and expenses in China. Efforts have been made to have the mission raised to first class, which would carry the salary from $12,000 to $17,500, and a bill was introduced in Congress to effect this. But it has failed, and so Mr. Low must try and get along at a thousand dollars per month.

The address of the Bishops to the General Conference of the M. E. Church South, contains this paragraph: "Indulgence in worldly and fashionable diversions is another great enemy of earnest piety which is invading the Church and threatening to estrange our children from us. Dancing in particular, whatever plausible excuses may be pleaded for it, is destructive to the growth, not to say the very existence of spiritual religion in those who delight to indulge in it. Generally, it is a species of reveling condemned and forbidden by the word of God and its tendency is evil only."

A cotemporary asks, since Americans are invariably generous to the families of their dead heroes, why should the noble services of Captain Williams, of the ill-fated Oneida, be forgotten? Why should he? Surely no servant of the Government ever showed more self-sacrificing devotion to duty than the large hearted American sailor, and it would be nothing more than simple justice that his children should be looked after and cared for by his grateful countrymen. The wife of Captain Williams died three years ago, and by his untimely death his children, three in number, are left entirely dependent on his relatives, who are said to be poor and unable to give them an education. Here is a case where the American people can testify their grateful appreciation of one of the most heroic acts which grace the annals of the sea.

WHAT THEY WILL DO.—Democracy is already talking very loudly of what it will do when the Legislature meets, and they get the power in their own hands. We have no doubt they will attempt to rule out every Republican from the Legislature if they can find anything like a pretext for expelling. They may as well make the most of their power, for it will be short lived, and having the State officers in 1872 won't avail them much with a Republican Legislature against them.

We want it distinctly understood that we have begun the next campaign, and that we fully appreciate the advantage of attacking the party in power and keeping it on the defensive. The trifling majorities bought and paid for last Monday and accomplished by having the entire control of the polls in many counties, including all Eastern Oregon, where opportunities are plentiful and scruples scarce, can easily be overturned by the overwhelming Republican emigration now coming in. Let them do their worst, then; we shall only hold them to a more strict reckoning.—Statesman.

We refer to the judicious article published elsewhere in this paper, from the Eugene Journal, in which the questions involved in the Humboldt "railroad controversy" are handled with fairness, ability and candor. The people of Southern Oregon, who are the ones really most interested in this subject ought to appreciate what has been done for them. The action of Senator Williams has prevented the consummation of a project that would have left them without railroad connections, and when the subject is brought fairly before them they will testify their appreciation of what has been done.

According to returns published in the Baker City Democrat, Slater's majority in Baker county is about 1[illegible]0. Smith's majority two years ago was 253.

An additional lot of those handsome suits worn by everybody, both heavy and light weight, was received by [illegible] & Fishel, No. 91 Front street. They are equal to the best [illegible] [illegible] to all who [illegible] wear them. [illegible] striped cal[illegible] shirts [illegible]. TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 14, 1870.

CITY.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.—A few minutes after two o'clock yesterday morning, some person or persons opened a window to the N. P. Co.'s surveyorship office, in this city, and fired a pistol ball through the headboard and into the pillow of a bed occupied by Dr. Towler, one of the Secretaries employed in the office. The attempt was evidently to assassinate, but fortunately for the intended victim he chanced to be lying at the moment with his head at the backside of the bed. Had he been lying with his head upon the front pillow, as is his custom, he must have been inevitably killed, as the range of the ball was such as to make the pillow from one end to the other at exactly the right height to strike his head. It is beyond conjecture who could have made the attempt or what the motive could have been. Dr. Towler has been here but a short time, and has had no difficulty or misunderstanding of any kind with any one. Instantly upon being roused by the report of the pistol, he jumped out of bed, seized his own pistol and fired through the open window at the figure of a man whom he saw running down toward Front street. The shot was, however, hastily fired and did not take effect. The man was without hat or coat, which was the only thing about him which the Doctor had time to notice. The police were engaged during yesterday in investigating the matter, but as yet no clue to the identity of the assassin has been obtained, nor is any one, so far as we can learn, in possession of any fact to warrant a suspicion against any person as the perpetrator of the cowardly attempt.

CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON, JUDGE.—The June term of the Circuit Court for Multnomah county began yesterday morning, and the following proceedings were had:

Several persons who had been summoned upon the regular panel were excused, when the following named persons were drawn and sworn, to serve as Grand Jurors: J. B. Congle, Foreman, F. H. Ram, W. Stephenson, D. C. Lewis, J. W. Weatherford, J. M. Gilman and I. S. Rosenbaum.

J. M. Ward and Fred. A. Clarke were appointed Bailiffs, and T. J. Dryer, Crier for the term.

J. Falk & Co. vs Crane & Co.; dismissed.

J. Fellows vs Robert McCann; dismissed.

Tilton vs R. A. White; default of defendant entered.

Brown vs. J. B. Harker; demurrer to complaint withdrawn and defendant given one day to answer.

Hale vs J. B. Harker; same order as in preceding case.

Peck vs J. B. Harker; case referred to E. Durham to report facts and the law.

Taylor vs Wm. H. Taylor; suit for divorce; default of defendant entered and case referred to E. Durham to report upon the law and facts.

Venire to issue for twelve additional jurors to fill up the regular panel.

Court adjourned till this morning.

RAILROAD IRON.—Mr. Holladay yesterday received the following telegram from San Francisco: "San Francisco, June 13.—Bal Miller arrived ... with iron. It will be forwarded without delay."

We are informed by Mr. Holladay that the iron will be taken from the present terminus of the track to ... and be ready for track laying by the time ... another vessel sailing direct to Portland with entire cargo of railroad iron is expected ... shortly.

... STEAMBOATMAN.—Capt. Bas Miller, whom everybody knows as an old steamboatman on the waters of the Wallamet and Columbia, has just been doing another job of perilous navigation on the Upper Columbia. A dispatch from Wallula, to-day, announces that he has run the two ... and Cabinet through Cabinet Rapids into Pend d'Oreille Lake. People will soon be able to say that Capt. PERSONAL.—We have received a letter within a few days from Mr. Pierre Thayer, the actor, who has been so well known here for the last two years. He went down on the steamer about three weeks ago, and he writes that he effected an engagement with Maguire within a few hours after his arrival at San Francisco. His friends here will be glad to hear of his good fortune and improved prospects, and that he speaks very hopefully of the future.

THE WEATHER.—Greatly to the delight of every body, and fat people in particular, the weather has fallen to a reasonable figure on the Fahrenheit scale. Last evening there was a fresh and cool wind blowing presaging a shower. Telegrams to the Commercial from up the Columbia indicate continued hot weather in that direction. At Wallula, the thermometer stood at 74 degrees, and at Umatilla 73 degrees. Blessed are the ...

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.—The side wheel steamer ... sailed from San Francisco for this port at 10 A. M. yesterday, with 96 cabin passengers ... and 475 tons freight.

THE STEAMER WILSON G. HUNT.—This steamer which used to be so much a favorite here, has been withdrawn from the Puget Sound trade and is about to be taken to San Francisco. The Hunt came round the Horn from New York twenty-one years ago. At San Francisco she will be rebuilt and placed in a lucrative trade on San Francisco Bay.

THE RIVER.—Water is now standing nearly four and a half deep on the O. S. N. Co's wharf, and is still rising. A telegram from Wallula to the Commercial, yesterday, states that the Columbia rose at that point the night previous, about three inches. At Umatilla the river rose four inches, and at the Dalles about twelve inches.

FIREMEN'S RELIEF ASSOCIATION.—This Association met last evening and the committee appointed at a former meeting not being ready to report, a week's further time was granted them, and the Association adjourned to meet on Monday evening, June 20 h.

The Darien Ship Canal.

[From the Boston Advertiser.]

Feelings of regret have been shown in England that, with all the engineering skill she commands and with her boasted national success in great and foreign movements, she has allowed France the honor of constructing the great Suez Canal. The traffic through this cut off between Europe and the East is immense, and so rapidly increasing as to have already effected a reduction in the shipping fleet of England, and increased the necessity for steam vessels. That England does not fear a falling off of her trade with the East, though she does not hold the gates to the Red Sea, is evident from the fact that she contemplates a railroad from the Mediterranean by the Euphrates Valley and the arid plains of Persia to the Indus. This will be a very much shorter route to India than the one by the Red Sea and Indian Ocean. Even with this road completed England would envy the French their possession of the Suez Canal. For large quantities of freight are sure to be transported by water in preference to rail between the distant nations of Europe and Asia; and the government that controlled both lines of traffic would enjoy a monopoly.

From France to the Suez Canal it is about 1,800 miles. At such a distance must France defend her right to this enviable canal, with so many powerful nations nearer or as near to it as she is.

From New Orleans to Aspinwall it is about 1,500 miles. If the United States come into possession of Cuba, and it seems that they soon will, the distance from Havana to Aspinwall will be about 1,000 miles.

That the United States should shrink from constructing the Darien Canal because there might be some difficulty in holding it in time of war, is a notion too weak and absurd for this great nation to be concerned about. With such resources as the United States commands, she can maintain her rights in more critical positions than this is ever likely to place her. And would not the other great nations be put to a greater expense and risk than the United States, if they should attempt any infringement of our rights in a position so much nearer our government than it is to theirs?

An increase in the English trade through this canal would not hurt us? What are Jamaica and some other little islands in the West Indies? If we own Cuba our management of that island will soon raise it to a position of greater importance and influence than all the rest of the West Indies together. That there is a necessity for a canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific can no longer be doubted. There is a pressing need for it. Now suppose we neglect the present opportunity, and England or France make and control this canal; our regrets will then be as useless as England's are to-day over the Suez canal. It is preposterous to suppose that if the United States built the Darien canal, she would reap the sole benefit of it. And it is very unbusiness-like to maintain that if we do not get all the benefit, this is good ground for our not constructing the canal at all. Just what proportion of the advantage would fall to each nation is hard to tell now. But when we see that the ports on the western coast of South America will all be nearer the United States than any other great maritime nation, and that our great traffic by the isthmus to the West will undoubtedly be increased when this canal is made, we may feel very confident that our share of the benefits attending the completion of this enterprise will be large enough to warrant every reasonable effort to secure its accomplishment. The cost of this enterprise will not be great, compared at least with that of the Suez canal. And I presume the privilege that foreign nations must annually pay to pass through the Darien canal, would largely contribute towards defraying the expense of its construction.

When the time, the great danger and the expense of rounding Cape Horn are done away with by the Darien canal, the nation that has made it may congratulate the world.

DESTITUTION IN ALASKA.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says:

There are in Sitka about 800 Russians, who, if reports are true, are starving to death. Frequent deaths from that cause are reported in the Sitka papers and official reports received here. An order from here caused the dismissal of all civilians from Government employ there. The Russians miss the work heretofore furnished them by the Russian American Company, and as they have no means of assisting each other, and all avenues of escape have been cut off, they are truly in a distressing condition. They are loud in denunciation of the Government at Washington for not extending some aid, to let them gather saw-logs and haul them to the Government saw-mills, or any work at equal chances with the Indians. They cry out in their starving condition for aid of some kind, or to be sent to Russia, where they can support themselves and get plenty to eat. The Indians, too, are in a deplorable condition. The United States Quartermaster there occasionally distributes rations among the people, but of course he cannot make a regular practice of it. The people will probably ere long realize the value of our purchase in these icy regions. The showing thus far is not very flattering. We have received no benefits from the acquisition, have added continued expense to the original purchase, and a feeling of humanity calls for some measures of relief for the distressed inhabitants of Alaska. It may be different when Congress shall permit the fisheries and fur stations to be worked over; but, just now, if we may believe reports, the distress of the inhabitants is terrible.

The Wear and Tear of Business Life.

The cares and labors of business life are apt to tell severely upon the health and constitution of the ardent, energetic business man, and when the need of some sustaining agent is felt, stimulants that cause only a temporary exhilaration, and leave the system in a state of partial collapse when their first effect has passed off, are too often resorted to. As certainly as fire leaves behind it a residuum of ashes, the use of the adulterated liquors of commerce produces premature exhaustion and decay. Touch them not. Tone and regulate the overtaxed vital machinery with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In that wholesome elixir, the alcoholic element, which is the purest derivable from any source, is tempered by the choicest tonic, aperient, anti-bilious and anti-febrile vegetable extracts and juices. To strengthen, recruit, solace and purify the system is the mission of this great vegetable specific. When the stomach is in a healthy state the bile flows regularly, the bowels perform their offices properly, and the brain and the nervous system are in perfect working order, an enormous amount of labor can be borne without fatigue or despondency, and the direct effect of the Bitters is to produce this vigorous condition of the faculties upon which the nourishment of the body and its powers of endurance mainly depend. The great tonic and alterative is, therefore, emphatically recommended for its remarkable strengthening properties, to all upon whom the responsibilities of life press heavily, and who feel like fainting under the burthen. A lively appetite, a splendid digestion, elastic spirits, and a marvelous ability to withstand fatigue, are among the blessings justly ascribed to the renovating operation of this palatable and powerful cordial, indeed there is nothing in the materia medica that can be compared with it.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

The Fenian Raid.

STATEMENT OF A FENIAN OFFICER.

[Malone, May 28th, Cor. of the N. Y. Herald.]

I have just obtained the following statement of the recent exploit of the Fenians from the responsible officer whose name is appended. He was confined in the dungeons of Ireland for his Fenian proclivities in the Emerald Isle. It is indorsed by all the troops:

"Whether the Fenian movement on Canada was made with the special object of rendering the whole affair a complete failure, I shall not take upon myself to decide, but that the generality of the men believe such to be the case, there can be no doubt. The St. Albans one, and other points from which attacks were made, have the very same blundering characteristic. The same studied imbecility was general throughout the whole matter. I shall only deal with a few of the particulars in connection with the movement in this direction. As soon as the men throughout the various States were officially notified by Gen. O'Neill to make Malone their headquarters, they lost no time in making the necessary preparations. There was much difficulty in obtaining transportation money to send them to their different destinations. However, the difficulty was to a great extent overcome, so that the men arrived here, as well as at other points, in squads of various numbers. When I was en route and when I arrived here it was told by various officers that there were actually encamped near the border five thousand veterans, all armed and equipped. In fact, the affair was exaggerated something in the style of three black crows before the truth was ascertained. When I arrived at the camp there were about five hundred men. Of course, others were coming in every day and received their arms and appointments. All were in good spirits and eager for the fray. It was difficult, however, to ascertain who was Commander-in-Chief. At length General Starr was chosen to that office. He awaited reinforcements for some days, but did not get them. At length it was determined to cross the border with what could be mustered, which number was about two hundred and fifty, for many of the men, getting disgusted and demoralized by the confusion and blunders, had scattered about in various directions not knowing what to do. Many of the enthusiastic would have a fight, win or lose. At length General Starr resolved to cross over and take up as strong a position as he could secure, and await the expected reinforcements. He chose a cornfield in front of a frame building, about a quarter of a mile distant. The wooden breastworks were thrown up and every defensive precaution taken. Wooden fences were leveled in front, in case of a charge being deemed expedient. Preparations had hardly been completed when the enemy, who was concealed, made his appearance and attacked us on the right and left flank with a detachment ordered to cut off our retreat. The Canadian forces, as I have since ascertained, consisted of about 1,100 men, both cavalry and infantry. They had also about fourteen pieces of artillery, but their use was unnecessary. When the enemy appeared we were ordered to take our position in a line behind the breastworks, and to kneel down and take steady aim. The order was promptly obeyed, although there was confusion and excitement, especially among those who were not accustomed to war or had never before smelled powder. We were told, however, not to fire until we were ordered—an order we never received—lest we might chance to kill any of the enemy. The first shot fired by the English soldiers was the signal, as it were, for General Starr (what a bright military genius he is!) to give the word 'Double quick, retreat.' Why did he not first, or at least, order the men to fire one volley, as they all had their rifles loaded? The order, of course, was obeyed, though the men paused and desired to stand. In fact, they were going to fight on their own hook. I admit it would have been imprudent to have stood as the men would almost all have been massacred or taken prisoners, and in the latter case we know the fate that awaited them. I was of the opinion that we certainly, under any circumstances, should have waited at least to cover the retreat of the picket that was sent forward, but the Starr paled and grew dim. He showed considerable suppleness of limb. He could beat his men at running by far. Well, we got away leaving one killed and two wounded, and one also taken prisoner, who was Court-martialed and shot. Two of the British were killed by the pickets. I wonder how much did the hero, General O'Neill, make of the transaction? is the query not alone asked by me, but by many others. God help the brave—we who were duped by such humbugs. To-day they are returning to their homes. One other remark. There was no interference on the part of the United States troops. Every facility was afforded to the invaders.

"B. W. GUINNESS."

CANADIAN ACCOUNT OF "THE BATTLE OF TROUT RIVER."

[From the Toronto Leader, May 28th.]

About eight o'clock it was discovered that a large body of Fenians had intrenched themselves near Holbrook's Corners. A detachment of the Rifle Brigade, including Prince Arthur's company, with 250 volunteers and 150 of the Independent Corps, were immediately sent forward to dislodge them. The Fenians opened a brisk fusilade, which was responded to by the Rifle Brigade in a terrible manner. The bullets literally rained down upon the barricade, and no human force could have lived for ten minutes. With a faint whoop the enemy vacated their shelter, dodged in and out among the brushwood, and on reaching the clear ground ran with a velocity which none but Fenians could equal. Their flight was most ludicrous. Knapsacks, overcoats, rifles, and the Fenians constant companions, whisky flasks, were thrown away in the steeple-chase; big Fenians fell over little Fenians, and little Fenians fell over big Fenians; officers jostled Sergeants, and Generals jostled privates, and away they rushed, helter-skelter, without as much as a solitary "Erin go Bragh!" It was a miniature Bull Run. Foremost among the fleet was an officer in a brand-new uniform, with a fierce-looking plume of green feathers in his shako. He must have been at Bull Run. He galloped antelope-like over fences, kangaroo-like over stumps, and on open ground he was equally unapproachable. Of him may it be truly said, in the word of Mark Twain, "None ran that day with more vigor, yet there was much running and a great deal of vigor." About one hundred and fifty yards from the American side the runners halted and pretended to rally, but the sight of the Rifle Brigade, followed closely by the Independents, was overpowering, and once more they went on their way. The scene after the skirmish was a strange one. It might have been thought, without any great stretch of imagination, that the contents of every pawnbroker's shop in Montreal had been sown broadcast on the field. Long-tailed blue coats, with United States army buttons, powder horns, tobacco boxes and clothing of every fashion, cut and description were strewed wholesale over a two-acre field. As the Rifle Brigade was returning leisurely from the Fenian chase they fell upon a Fenian acting the corpse by the side of a log. A loud moan betrayed his presence, and when it was ascertained that he was not dead but scheming, he was lifted up tenderly by the collar and questioned as to his intentions. He bitterly protested that he was no "Faynian, but a dacent, well raised boy, wid no harm in me at all, at all." Cross-examination revealed the fact that his veracity was not spotless, and he was placed under arrest, with the comforting assurance from a burly Sergeant of the Rifles "that he would be blown from the cannon's mouth immediately after dinner." The enthusiasm when his Royal Highness Prince Arthur appeared in front of his company was unbounded. Cheer after cheer rent the air, and when they died away strong lungs pealed forth that grand old anthem, "God Save the Queen." The Prince graciously acknowledged the compliment.

GEN. O'NEILL'S SIDE OF THE STORY.

BOSTON, May 26.—The restless Gen. O'Niell who commanded the ill-timed and badly-managed advance at Franklin, claims that he is the victim of deceit. To a Boston gentleman, who took supper with on Thursday evening, he freely related his bitter experience. He said his plan was to have made the advance from Franklin on Monday night. He had been promised that 1,200 men from Boston and vicinity, and 400 or 500 from Vermont, should be at St. Albans that night, and he had provided arms, ammunition and provisions for them, with means of transportation. To his surprise the only force that came to time was the Burlington company of sixty men. The full force had been enlisted, but their officers were tardy or treacherous, and he found himself unsupported. He was especially indignant with a Lawrence General who left him in the lurch. General O'Neill denies that his arrest was in accordance with an agreement with the United States Marshal. He says all the men had instructions not to resist the United States authorities under any circumstances, and that, in obedience to these orders, they would not have helped him if he had tried to avoid arrest. He believes that if properly supported there would have been severe fighting, and this seems to be about all he had hoped as the result of the expedition.

A Boston man proposed to visit New York recently, via the Hartford and Erie Railroad. As he was a little early for the train, he bought a newspaper, and after looking at the stock sales, picked up his valise and started up the street. "I thought you were going to New York by this route?" said a friend. "Well, so I was, but I'll be hanged if I go over a road when a share of its stock is worth less than a single fare."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

PORTLAND, Monday, June 13, 1870.

Gold was reported this morning at New York, at 113½—a decline.

Legal Tenders are quoted at 88½@89c.

The week opens upon a rather quiet market in general, though we note to-day the shipment of a considerable quantity of agricultural machinery, farm implements, and a number of wagons. This line of trade is about the only one in which any special activity is observable. Dry goods and hardware, particularly, are quiet, and trade in groceries has not been so lively as usual.

PRODUCE—Prices are unchanged generally. For a few days past, more than the usual quantities of flour and provisions have been coming forward. The store houses here are full and we learn that the same state of things exists at Oregon City. This accumulation happens in consequence of a lack of tonnage just at at the present time. Earlier in the year several vessels here for produce freight were unable to get cargoes and were compelled to fill up with lumber, and in consequence some of them were drawn off to other trades. Since the the late advance in prices of produce, however, the offerings for shipment have been larger, and now our dealers and shippers find themselves unable to work their supplies off as received.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED AT THE CONtract Office of this Department until 3 o'clock P. M., of Wednesday, June 8, 1870, (to be decided by the 30th), for carrying the mails of the United States from July 1, 1870, or as soon thereafter as practicable, to June 30, 1872, on the following route in the Territory of

WASHINGTON,

And by the schedule of departures and arrivals herein specified, viz:

15421 From Port Townsend, by San Juan, Fort Tongas, and Fort Wrangle, to Sitka, Alaska Territory, 900 miles and back, once a month, in suitable and safe steamboats.
Leave Port Townsend on the 1st of every month;
Arrive at Sitka on the 10th of the same month;
Leave Sitka on the 15th of every month;
Arrive at Port Townsend on the 22d of the same month.

Proposals to begin service at Portland, Oregon, instead of Port Townsend, 300 miles farther, invited. Also, for service twice a month.

Instructions,

Containing conditions to be incorporated in the contract to the extent the Department may deem proper:

The Special Agents of the Postoffice Department, on exhibition of their credentials, also Postoffice blanks, mail bags, locks and keys, are to be conveyed without charge.

The route agents of the Department, should it appoint them, to be conveyed without charge, and for their exclusive use while traveling with the mails, a commodious apartment is to be provided by the contractor, under the direction of the department.

No pay will be made for trips not performed; and for each of such omissions, not satisfactorily explained, three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails, and not satisfactorily excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Deduction will also be ordered for a grade of performance inferior to that specified in the contract. For repeated delinquencies of the kind, enlarged penalties, proportioned to the nature thereof and importance of the mail may be made.

Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be promptly and satisfactorily explained by certificates of postmasters or the affidavits of other credible persons, for failing to arrive on contract time; for neglecting to take the mail from or deliver it into a postoffice; for suffering it to be wet, injured, destroyed, robbed or lost, and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a conveyance on the route.

The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated failures to run agreeably to contract, for violating the postoffice laws, or disobeying the instructions of the department.

The Postmaster General may order an increase of the service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may change the schedule of departures and arrivals, provided that by so doing the running time be not abridged.

Each bid must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to be such by a postmaster or a judge of a court of record. The department reserves the right to reject any bid which may be deemed extravagant, and also to disregard the bids of failing contractors and bidders.

For forms of proposal, guarantee and certificate, and also for other instructions as to the conditions to be embraced in the contract, &c, see advertisement of September 20, 1869, inviting proposals for mail service in California and Oregon and Washington, to be found at the principal postoffices.

Bids should be sent in sealed envelopes, superscribed, "Mail Proposals, Route No. 15421, Washington Territory," and addressed to the Second Assistant Postmaster General.

JNO. A. J. CRESWELL,
Postmaster General.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering in a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into their system? Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies. See that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtaining immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trade. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.
